

INSURING WEATHER

The plan The government is planning to roll out a weather-based agricultural insurance system in select districts of 12 states.

Agencies involved The premium will be subsidized by the Union and state governments; policies will be sold by a state-owned insurer and two private insurers.

Methodology The package works by identifying insurable parameters such as average rainfall, temperature and frost for each district.