

INDEXING TROUBLE

THE NEWS

The updated Index of Industrial Production may be delayed as the the department of industrial policy and promotion is yet to tie up data with its primary sourcing agency.

THE BACKGROUND

The current index measures industrial growth on a 14-year-old base and hence does not account for the emergence of new growth sectors in industry even as it continues to include segments which have either closed down or declined in importance.